

Americans May Fight in Middle East Says Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary Dulles said today that if Congress turns down President Eisenhower's Middle East program events may get out of hand with "a very great likelihood" American boys may have to fight there.

He argued the chances of actual involvement of U. S. troops would be diminished if Eisenhower were given standby authority to use them in event of Soviet aggression.

Dulles was asked by Sen. Langer (R-ND) what were the possibilities of American boys having to fight in the Middle East.

"If the resolution passes, there is very little likelihood," Dulles replied. "If it doesn't pass there is a very great likelihood."

Searcy Plans Plant Groundbreaking

SEARCY (AP) Residents here have been invited to a "bring-your-own-a-shovel" groundbreaking ceremony Jan. 23 to mark the start of construction of Searcy Corp.'s new business machine factory.

At a pre-arranged signal, all will be expected to break ground with whatever equipment they have—spades, shovels or garden forks.

Gov. Orval Faubus also has been invited to participate along with state and local officials.

Israel Objects But Leaves Key Peninsula Point

JERUSALEM, Israeli Section (AP) Israeli troops withdrew today from El Arish, the administrative center of Egypt's Sinai Peninsula. Yugoslav units of the U.N. Emergency Force moved in a few minutes later.

There was no direct contact between the Israelis and the Yugoslavs.

Egyptian spokesmen have said President Nasser's troops would enter the base 30 miles southwest of the old Palestine border, tomorrow.

After their withdrawal Israeli forces still occupied about a fourth of the Sinai Peninsula which they won in their lightning attack last October.

Israel has challenged a U.N. report estimating at least 432 Arabs were killed in the invasion and occupation of the Gaza Strip of Palestine northeast of El Arish.

Several Democratic senators have said they want to ask Dulles to give some proof for a statement he made yesterday—that the Communist threat to the Middle East is the most dangerous situation "we have faced over the past 16 years."

Jaycees' Farm Contest Forms Available

The Junior Chamber of Commerce today announced that nomination forms for its Outstanding Young Farmer project are now available at the Hope Star office, for anyone desiring to make a nomination.

The project is a Jaycee effort to recognize and honor the achievements of young men who have made outstanding progress in their agricultural careers, who have made notable contributions to soil and natural resource conservation, and who have worked to improve their communities. All farmers between the ages of 21 through 35 are eligible.

Judges for the project include: Oliver Adams, County Agent; Cecil Bittle, Experiment Station Manager; Dale Jones, Cashier, Citizens National Bank; Sil McMath, Cashier, First National Bank; and Mitchell Sparks, County PMA Supervisor.

At stake are a number of local, state and national awards and honors. The community winner will represent this city in the state finals and may win an all expense trip to the national awards program in Durham, North Carolina April 15 and 16.

Deadline for receipt of entries is February 1, 1957. Nomination forms are also available by mail. Write: Pod Rogers, 311 S. Spruce, Hope, Ark.

U. S. Expels Top Soviet Attache

WASHINGTON (AP) The United States has expelled an assistant Soviet military attache for "improperly" buying electronic equipment and trying to purchase "classified military information."

It was announced today.

In a terse note delivered last night, the United States declared Maj. Yuri P. Krylov personal non grata (unwelcome) and demanded his "immediate departure."

The State Department said, in announcing the ouster, that Krylov had improperly purchased electronic equipment.

"On various occasions, Maj. Krylov had purchased such materials through American intermediaries," the department said.

In the note itself, the United States said these were "highly improper activities incompatible with his diplomatic status."

Fire Destroys 2 Air Force Hangars

MCHORD AIR FORCE BASE, Wash. (AP) — Fire fed by exploding cans of paint, gasoline and tires roared through two maintenance hangars at McChord Field near Tacoma, Wash., today destroying $3 million worth of airplanes.

An Air Force spokesman said damage to the hangars was "severe."

Arthur J. McCarthy, fire chief at McChord field, was taken to the base hospital after being overcome by smoke. He was unable to give an estimate as to the amount of damage caused by the fire.

The blaze broke out about 5:30 a. m. (PST) and was brought under control two hours later.

Li. Alex Crewdson, public information officer at the base, said four planes were stored in the hangars and two of them—a C-124 Globemaster and a C-118 Transport—appeared damaged beyond repair. Crewdson said a T-33 jet trainer and an L-20 liaison plane could be repaired. Costs of a C-118 are approximately $1.7 million and $1.3 million, respectively.

Crewdson said the only gasoline in the hangars was in the fuel tanks of the airplanes.

Also damaged in the fire were a maintenance shop, tire shop, parachute shop paint shop and a carpentry shop all of which were inside the hangars the largest on the field.

Senate Bill Calls for 4-Year Term

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A proposed amendment to make a governor's term four instead of two years was introduced in the state Senate today.

The proposed amendment offered in the form of a joint resolution by Sen. Edward J. Byrd of Camden, would apply only to the governor and not to other constitutional officers. "This would apply to the governor elected in 1958."

Under the proposed amendment the governor would not be eligible to succeed himself.

A bill, introduced Sen. Gailher C. Johnston of Dermott, would establish the office of assistant adjutant general. The assistant adjutant general would be appointed by the adjutant general, subject to the approval of the governor.

Shivers Names Blakely, Senate Control Assured

AUSTIN, Tex., (UP) Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas as his last official act today appointed Dallas attorney William A. Blakely a "loyal Democrat" though an Eisenhower partisan, to the U. S. Senate succeeding Governor-elect Price Daniel.

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) announced from Washington Blakely will vote with the Democrats, thus continuing the 49-47 Democratic control of the Senate.

But Blakely, at Dallas, refused to say whether he will vote Democratic or Republican as interim Senator from Texas.

"It's not voting time," he said. "I don't think we ought to talk voting now."

Daniel stepped down from the office, with two years remaining on his term, to take his oath as governor of Texas at noon.

Announcement of the appointment originally scheduled for 10 a. m. was 13 minutes late, and came one hour and 47 minutes before Shivers leaves office. He has served seven years six months and seven days—longer than any chief executive in the history of the state.

Shivers said in his announcement that Blakely will serve "until a successor has been elected and qualified."

Under Texas law, Daniel would call an election immediately. It must be held at a date not sooner than 60 days nor later than 90 days after that time.

"Mr. Blakely will not be a candidate in the special election," Shivers said.

The governor then added: "Under the law, a 10-day interval is allowed after the appointment of an interim senator before a special election must be called. I am not setting the special election at this time, but rather leaving this matter to Governor-elect Daniel. By doing so, if Governor Daniel so desires an additional day to complete their new poll tax rolls, following the deadline for poll tax payments on Jan. 31."

Disarmament Expansion Is Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) Sen. Humphrey (D-Min) urged the Eisenhower administration today to expand its new disarmament proposals to include a negotiated withdrawal of both American and Soviet troops from Germany.

Humphrey, a member of the American delegation to the United Nations, voiced approval of a five-point disarmament program presented to the U.N. yesterday by the chief U.S. delegate, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr.

But the Minnesota senator said in an interview he regrets the proposals do not indicate some flexibility relating to Central Europe and Germany.

"I think we should restudy our position in Western Germany with the objective of withdrawing our troops if the Soviets will agree to pull back their troops from East Germany and Poland," Humphrey said.

"We are going to have to face up to the possibility that a German government—not necessarily the present one headed by Chancellor Adenauer—may proceed on its own initiative to try to negotiate for unification with East Germany."

"In such a situation we could find ourselves in the position of being asked to get out of West Germany. It would be much better if we now could begin to weigh the assets and liabilities of a phased withdrawal of American and Soviet forces from the area."

In its five-point program, the administration proposed, among other things, that the armed forces of the United States and Soviet Russia be limited to 2½ million men each and those of Britain and France to 750,000 each, subject to a workable inspection system.

Senate Acts to Protect State Highway Setup

By ADREN COOPER

LITTLE ROCK (AP) The state Senate today speedily approved a resolution designed to force highway commissioners to live up to the spirit of the Mack-Blackwell amendment.

The Senate also passed—after a brief fight—the bill to appropriate money for its expenses, including $8,440 for "contingent expenses and special travel expenses."

The House resolution on the Mack-Blackwell amendment declared that no person should be appointed to the Highway Commission unless he is in complete accord with principles of that amendment. The resolution also said that any present member of the commission should resign if not in accord.

The Mack-Blackwell amendment set up the commission four years ago as a "constitutional authority and not subject to the wishes of each administration."

Sen. Oliver Williams of Sheridan led a fight to get the "special travel" item out of the Senate appropriation bill for operating expenses.

A majority of the Senate had agreed in private that 12 senators who did not have relatives on the Senate payroll would apply for the special expenses. Thus, each would get $720.

Williams said, "The fact that we are trying to pay ourselves $720 is unconstitutional. We cannot justify our position to the people of Arkansas. Two years ago the people had a chance to raise salaries, and did not do so."

Sen. Ellis Pagan of Little Rock said the bill did not affect him but he declared, "These 12 members need not fear repercussions from the people for any legitimate expenses. The House has done this for years. These 12 people could just as easily have put people on the payroll, at $720 apiece."

The bill passed by a vote of 24-10.

PSC Probe Brings House Problem

LITTLE ROCK (AP) A resolution for an investigation of the Arkansas Public Service Commission, with a related look into utility stock ownership by state employees, threw the House in a procedural controversy at its first session of the 1957 Legislature yesterday.

The resolution finally was referred to the Resolutions Committee for consideration.

First-term Rep. Hardy W. Croxton of Benton County introduced the resolution. It would have the Public Service Commission probe "any interest of... state officials, either elective or appointive, in the various public utilities of this state regulated by the Public Service Commission."

East Arkansas Suffers Gas Interruption

LITTLE ROCK (AP) Gas service to a number of east Arkansas industries was interrupted yesterday because of what the gas companies described as low pipeline pressure stemming from cold weather.

Companies reducing service Mid-South Gas Co., with headquarters at Little Rock, and Ark-Mo Power Co., of Blytheville.

R. P. Wilson, general sales manager of Mid-South, said the interruption was complete "in practically every case," he added that "most have standby equipment" to enable them to continue operations despite curtailed gas service.

M. C. Quadra, gas engineer of Ark-Mo, said holders of interruptible contracts in northeast Arkansas and southeast Missouri were affected by the cutoff.

No residential customers were affected by either curtailment.

PSC Orders Study of Gas Cost

LITTLE ROCK (AP) A cost of service study of Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. operations will begin by Jan. 21.

The Arkansas Public Service Commission yesterday directed the study to be made. A controversy over the firm's new 3X "preferential service" contracts led to the action.

In its order, the commission said there would be a full determination of cost of service to Ark-La customers who now receive gas under 3A schedules.

The 3A schedules are those approved by the commission for small or medium industries. Such industries agreeing to the proposed 3X contracts would pay an additional five cents per 1,000 cubic feet for natural gas for a 3-year period.

Customers in the 3X category would get priority over 3A customers when Ark-La had to curtail industrial gas deliveries to protect domestic users.

Hikes in Sales, Severance, Gas Taxes Included

By LEON HATCH

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus today asked the Legislature to increase the sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent, to lower state income tax exemptions and to increase the severance tax.

In his second term inauguration speech before a joint session of the Legislature, Faubus said the proposed sales tax boost and income tax revision would increase state revenues by around 21 million dollars a year.

He did not estimate what the proposed increase in severance tax—the levy imposed for removing or "severing" natural resources—would bring.

The governor asked an increase of 1 per cent in the rate on oil. Producers would pay 5 per cent of the field price for oil rather than 4 per cent. Oil production contributes the bulk of severance tax revenue.

Faubus also asked that the rate on natural gas be doubled by an increase of from 1-20 of one cent per 1,000 cubic feet to 1-10 of one cent.

He would raise the rate on bauxite from 10 cents to 15 cents a ton and on coal, limestone and some other resources from 1 cent to 2 cents a ton.

Faubus said his tax program would permit an increase of $14,300,000 additional state aid to public schools—raising the salary of each classroom teacher about $800 a year—and would allow increases in allotments for welfare, higher education, the state hospital for Nervous Diseases and other institutions and agencies.

There was little new or startling in the program the governor proposed. It has been reported for months that Faubus would seek more money from sales, income and severance taxes, and the total had been set at around 22 millions.

Faubus, however, had declined to talk publicly about the details of his program in advance of today's speech.

Besides the proposed $14,300,000 increase for schools—his Advisory Committee on Education had asked $8 million dollars—Faubus said there would be an increase of $4,300,000 for the Welfare Department.

He said this would permit the state to get an additional 11 million dollars in federal matching money or overall some 15 million dollars more for welfare services.

Another one million dollars a year allotted for the Welfare Department would be matched by an equal amount of federal money and would be paid to the state Medical Center for care of indigent welfare recipients who are patients, Faubus said. Federal matching money could not be obtained if the million dollars were allotted directly to the AL Center, he explained.

Faubus said that aside from the Welfare Department contribution, the Medical Center would be on an operating budget of 2½ million dollars yearly.

Faubus said the State Hospital would receive an annual increase of $1,780,000.

He also detailed these other increases he said would be possible if the additional tax revenue materializes:

University of Arkansas $2,620,000; State Teachers College, $200,000; Henderson State Teachers $130,000; Arkansas State, $360,000; plus $1,000 for its Beebe branch; Arkansas Tech $16; Southern State, $165,000; Arkansas A&M $165,000; Arkansas AM&N College for Negroes $300,000; Booneville Sanatorium, $465,000; State Blind and deaf Schools, $14,000.

Faubus said there was available a cushion of around 4 million dollars above the necessary adequate reserve and suggested that the Legislature appropriate this money for "some useful purpose."

He recommended in that order, re-roofing and rehabilitation of State Hospital building which was constructed during World War II when steel was not available and has since become unusable; construction of buildings for the mentally retarded coeases for the support of the blind and deaf; and construction of buildings at the Negro Girls Training School at Fargo.

Talks to Disarm Getting Nowhere

By JAMES MAHLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — On the very day the Eisenhower administration proposed a new disarmament plan to the United Nations, it prepared to ask Congress to boost this country's spending on armaments by about two billion dollars.

This was not a case of the United States speaking out of both sides of its mouth. It was coincidental and a commentary on the times we live in.

The United States and Russia have been sparring around in the U. N. on disarmament since 1946 and, for all practical purposes, are no nearer agreement than when they started.

In these intervening years, the two nations — lacking agreement and because they distrust each other profoundly — have been arming as hard as they can. They will continue to do so.

There is no reason to expect they will get together soon and decide to stop their weapons race.

Yesterday, while U. S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. was unveiling this country's latest disarmament plan before the U. N. here in Washington, President Eisenhower was getting ready to unveil his budget proposals for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

The budget is expected to call for spending of close to 72 billion dollars, or nearly three billions more than last year. Around two billions of that increase will be in armaments and weapons development. Military spending this year has been at the rate of about 26 billions.

Nothing shows better how much progress the United States and Russia have made in their ability to blow each other off the map than a look at what was being talked about in 1946, and now.

In that earlier year this country was proposing plans for controlling the atomic bomb — that was at a time when Russia didn't yet have the bomb — and curbing atomic development for war.

Since then, the United States has learned how to make even better atomic bombs. Russia has learned how to make them too. And both went on to bigger things, the hydrogen bomb.

Now they are development satellites that can circle the earth and missiles that can span continents and oceans. Lodge yesterday suggested among other things, international control of testing of all space missiles, including satellites.

The United States has always insisted on foolproof inspection measures to prevent cheating before it would agree on disarming. But the Russians have resisted.

and further investigate the manner and methods of establishing rates fixed by the Public Service Commission.

No utility was specified, but the resolution apparently grew out of recent controversies over Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. rates and printed statements that some state officials and employees owned Ark-La stock.

A preliminary section of the resolution mentioned "the allegation that certain state officials own stock or have owned stock in various utilities."

Another section said the PSC had been criticized "for instituting unfair, inequitable and discriminatory rates."

The resolution customarily would have been acted on yesterday.

Croton, however, asked that the matter be carried over and said he would discuss the resolution at a later session.

That led to an argument over whether the resolution had to be disposed of at once and if it didn't, what the proper procedure for postponement was.

Speaker Glen P. Walther of Pulaski County finally ruled, to the apparent satisfaction of all, that the resolution could go to a committee. He assigned it to the Resolutions Committee.

During an unexpectedly lively opening session — in years past devoted to little routine and pre-arranged organizational matters — the House also received five bills, including one to abolish the job of county school supervisor and transfer the duties to school district superintendents.

The Senate completed its organization quietly and received only one bill — an appropriation measure for its salaries and expenses during the 60-day legislative meeting.

Trimble Retirement Awaits Successor

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Federal Judge Thomas C. Trimble will continue to preside in Arkansas' Eastern District until his successor is named.

Trimble, who previously announced his retirement effective today, said yesterday he had received a letter from Chief Justice Archibald K. Gardner of the U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals, St. Louis, directing him to continue in a reserve capacity.

After President Eisenhower appoints Trimble's successor, the 78-year-old jurist still may serve in any federal court in the nation in which he is needed, he said.

Trimble said the letter named Judge Harry J. Lemley, chief of Arkansas' Western District, chief of both districts. However, Lemley has said he would not have time to try cases in the Eastern District.

Judge John E. Miller of Fort Smith also is assigned to the Western District.

Rebsamen Resigns From Merit Council

Rebsamen, a Little Rock businessman, was appointed to the 3-man commission in May 1955 and has served as chairman since that time.

A second vacancy on the Merit Council will come up next month. John Collins' term will expire Feb. 3. The term of the third member, J. C. Mitchell, expires Feb. 2, 1959.

DOROTHY DIX

Unhappy Wife Bucks Spoiled in-Laws

Dear Dorothy Dix: After 15 years of marriage, my in-laws still haven't forgiven me for stealing their darling boy. I was orphaned in childhood, and had always looked forward to acquiring a nice family of in-laws. But no matter how hard I try to be co-operative, I cannot please these.

My sister-in-law is the spoiled darling of the family to whom I am eternally compared — to my disadvantage, of course. My husband and I are treated like infants — we're in our 40's. They have given us very little interest, even less respect, and no affection at all. I have become so resentful and bitter that it's showing in all my relationships — with friends, neighbors and my own relatives.

TINA
Dear Tina: You outlined many more complexities of the situation than I could include in this short space. In a situation like this, you can do three things: fight it, submit to it, or blissfully go crazy. Fighting will accomplish nothing. I'm sure you're not looking forward to the third alternative, so why not try the second? Acceptance of your in-laws provides the only way.

You and your husband know all their peculiarities, their injustices, their self-centeredness. So between you, make up your minds to go along placidly, ignoring things you don't like, making the most of what compatible points they have.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm going with a young man who was engaged about a year ago. He is still good friends with his ex-fiancee, which I think is nice if not carried too far. However, she seems to put in an appearance almost every place we go. The boy and I have many arguments and quarrels over this but he won't admit he's wrong to see so much of the girl.

HONORA
Dear Honora: You are only going with the boy, remember! You have no claims on him. Therefore, it's extremely bad just to try dictating. You'll lose him very quickly if you continue these tactics.

Dear Dorothy Dix: We're living with my in-laws, preying the completion of our own home. We got along fine, but I have one sister-in-law, aged 20, who is too lazy to breathe. The minute she gets home at night (yes, she does work), she flops in a chair and demands service. She expects me to cater to her as Mother does, but I have enough to do with two lively youngsters. She never goes out, never has friends in — just sits and watches TV.

EMILEE
Dear Emilee: A few shots of Vitamin B-12 might help. Can't you act the role of older sister and convince her that there's plenty of life to be lived, instead of watched on TV? She, too, can have fun! Maybe she needs a bit of bolstering in the self-confidence departments.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Josh and I dated for a few months, then I broke off because of the way he acted. He's a flirt, show-off and braggart. I thought I'd forget him, but I can't still like him. When we meet in school, I'm very self-conscious and don't know how to act. Should I let him know I still like him?

PHYLLIS
Dear Phyllis: Don't waste the effort. Chances are he knows it! If you start chasing after him, the objectionable traits that led to the him to make the first move, or bustup will be intensified. Wait for better still, get another beau.

Doctor Accused of Slaying Patient

EASTBOURNE, England — Dr. John Bodkin Adams was accused of slaying a wealthy 81-year-old widow by turning her into a drug addict, then killing her with overdoses after she changed her will in his favor.

The prosecution outlined its case against the highly respected 57-year-old bachelor physician at a hearing in this genteel seaside resort where many old people come to spend their last days. Scotland Yard's gentleman sleuth, Supt. Herbert Hannam, built up the case after painstaking study of the wills of 400 rich Eastbourne residents.

That one of the persons plagues swept Europe during the Middle Ages is the fact that following the fall of Rome, the habit of bathing fell into disrepute. John Wesley, founder of Methodism, really meant it when he said in a sermon about 1730 "Cleanliness is indeed next to Godliness."

That George Herbert observed more than 300 years ago, "He that is not handsome at 20 nor strong at 30, nor rich at 40 nor wise at 50 will never be handsome, strong, rich or wise."

Rev. Mayo
Jimmie Mayo, evangelist from Atlanta, Ga., will conduct special revival services at the Hope Gospel Tabernacle the last two weeks of this month, beginning tonight at 7:30 and continuing each night except Saturday.

The Rev. Mr. Mayo, will be the featured speaker and will also present vocal and instrumental numbers. In addition to his preaching, the evangelist is a trained artist and will present chalk drawings in pastel colors. He will be accompanied by his ventriloquist doll, "Jerry," an attraction to children, who will tell stories and sing songs that they will like a heart.

Prayer for the sick will be offered in these services and a cordial welcome is extended to all to attend these meetings by Rev. W. C. Land, pastor.

Dividends in Stock Means Tight Money

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) A spurt in payments of dividends in stock instead of cash is a running male today of tight money. Many companies like the idea because it saves cash for use in the business during a period when outside cash is hard to get and costly.

Many stockholders like it too. Cash is subject to the income tax, while the extra stock, when sold, may become a capital gain. Like its cousin, the stock split, the stock dividend makes the portfolio look fatter, although critics point out that the stockholder's share of the assets is actually unchanged.

In 1956 about 1,000 corporations paid all or part of dividends in stock—three times the number in 1955—for a total market value of 1 1/2 billion dollars. In the last 10 business days of 1956 there were 35 stock dividend declarations.

The reason usually given for the stock dividend is that the company, thus retains more money for future growth without either expensive borrowing or dilution of present stockholders' equity by selling new stock to outsiders.

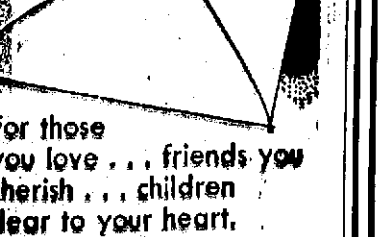

Some companies—like Eastman Kodak, Gulf Oil, Cerro de Pasco and Reynolds Metal—combine stock and cash payments fairly regularly.

BURNS FATAL

Mrs. Reba Abeta Evans and her two small children were burned in the blaze which started when an oil stove exploded. The children—Michael 2, and Beverly Diane, 4—still are hospitalized here.
